JOSIE HOLMES TESTIFIES.

THE FIDEBITY'S EXCHANGE CLERK ON THE WITNESS STAND.

She Made Out the Famous Drafts and Checks and Harper and Hopkins Signed Them-She Merely Obeyed Orders-The Court Room Crowded With People.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 18 .- The government very quietly introduced Miss Josie Holmes as a witness this morning in the Hopkins trial. It was very neatly done. The crowd was "left." There was a rustle and craning of heads when Miss Holmes stepped quietly to the witness stand. The witness was attired in garments of dark colors. She wore a plain black fur lined circular, black bonnet with high black feather and black velvet.

"What is your name?" asked Mr. Bruce. "Josie B. Holmes," in a voice almost inaudible.

She judge directed her to speak louder. "What was your position in the Fidelity?" "Exchange clerk."

Witness was handed letters of credit drawn n favor of Chicago brokers.

"By whom were these signed?" "By Benj. E. Hopkins."

"By whom were they dictated to you?" "By Mr. Hopkins,"

"Did he give you anything for them?" "Nothing except the memorandum checks." "In what manner were the drafts obtained?"

"Mr. Hopkins would bring Mr. Hoyt to me and tell me to make out the draft. Mr. Hopkins would give me a check for the amount, and tell me to take it to Mr. Harper, who would make it good."

"In whose handwriting are the drafts?" "The body of them in mine. The signature in Mr. Hopkin's."

So it was with the other drafts to Chicago brokers, witness said. "Were you present in the directors' room on the evening of June 14?"

"Yes, until 7:30. I remained to do some writing on the type writer in regard to the $1,000,000 of bills receivable sent to the Chemical, of New York."

"Was Mr. Hopkins present?" "Yes, sir."

Witness wrote the letter to the Chemical dated June 14, addressed to W. J. Quinlan, cashier, stating that the Fidelity had forwarded $1,000,000 of choice bills to be held against any overdrafts until the false rumors against the bank had subsided. Mr. Harper had wrote the letter in memorandum, and

Mr. Hopkins brought it to her. "How long was Mr. Hopkins there?"

"Until 6:30." "Who dictated the 'six zebra' telegram?"

Incorporated in 1868 for twenty-five years by the Legislature for Educational and Charitable purposes—with a capital of $1,000,000—to which a reserve fund of over $550,000 has since been added.

By an overwhelming popular vote its franchise was made a part of the present State Constitution adopted December 2, A.D., 1878.

The only Lottery ever voted on and endorsed by the people of any State.

The people of any State.

The would tell me the quotations from day to day, and said I was making money on my place monthly, and the Grand Quarterly Drawings regularly every three months—March, June, September and December.

The would they receive quotations at the bank?"

"By telephone and messenger." Miss Holmes and Mr. Swift came into the directors' room when the charge tickets were being made out for various drafts. "Did Mr. Hopkins say anything to Mr. Bwift?"

"He told Mr. Swift to go out of the room. He said 'These tax lists give me a great deal of trouble.' This was to throw Mr. Swift off the track." "Did you ever hear any conversation be tween Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Harper in regard to wheat purchases?"

"Yes, sir. On the occasion they were talking in a rather loud tone of voice. I was standing behind them. Mr. Harper said he wouldn't buy any more wheat. Mr. Harper said he had better buy all he could get at 94."

"When was this conversation?"

"About a week or two before the bank Long before Miss Holmes' direct examina tion had been concluded, "tips" had gone forth and the court room was crowded.

Miss Holmes was turned over to the tender mercies of Mr. Bateman.

"Miss Holmes where do you now reside?" he asked. "In Cincinnati,"

"Where in Cincinnati?"

"In the county jail."

Here witness bowed her head and shed

The court: "You have only the right to ask whether she is under indictment.' Mr. Hooper: "Mr. Hopkins don't know that Miss Holmes has been indicted. As a matter of fact she has never been arraigned.' "Why are you in jail?" said Mr. Bateman, determined to probe the mystery.

"I don't know," replied witness in a tone of "Who told you to sign the name of E. L Harper to the 'six zebra' telegram?"

"Mr. Hopkins told me to sign Mr. Harper" name. After Mr. Hopkins had read the telegram he told me to stroke out the name of E. L. Harper, and add 'Fidelity National bank.

"Did he give any reason for the change?" "No, sir."

"Who was present on the evening of June 14 in the directory room?" "Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Harper, Mr. Watters Mr. Hinsch and Mr. Yowell.'

"Was Mr. Yowell there all the time!" "No, sir. He went out about half-past 6." "Did you communicate to any of the bank's officers what you and Mr. Hopkins had done in regard to the change tickets?" "No, sir. I was not in the habit of telling the officers what any one directed me to do. "They were for pretty large amounts-$123,000 in one case?" "That was not such an unusually large amount in our business," "Was there any personal relation existing between you and Mr. Hopkins that you should keep the matter quiet?"

"I don't think there was." "Were your relations with Mr. Hopkins in the bank more confidential than with Harper den, the fourteen victim of the Bradford disor Baldwin?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't you attend to Mr. Harper's private businessj"

"Yes, sir." "Did you attend to the private business of any other officer of the bank?"

"No, sir." "You have stated that you knew there was a wheat deal going on. How did you know it?"

"It was the general understanding " "Well, but how did you know it?"

"From the large amount of the letvers of

"Under what circumstances did you get the 50,000 bushels?" "They were presented to me as my interest for the matters I attended to about the wheat interest. Miss Holmes said the understanding was that she was to issue drafts on Hopkins' checks, then get Harper's checks and substitude them. Miss Holmes carried Harper's checks, although worthless, and kept quiet. The 50,000 bushels were covered by Harper's drafts. When the market dropped to ninety-four Miss Holmes told Hopkins that she wanted to sell out. Mr. Harper overheard the conversation and told her not to "Have you the memorandum of your wheat purchase?"

"No, sir; I destroyed it."

"When and for what reason?" "When - the - market - dropped 20 cents — a — bushel."

Have you discussed or made any arrangement as to what you should testify in this case?"

"No, sir." "Have you had any correspondence with anybody with reference to what you should testify in this case?"

"No, sir." Mr. Bateman drew from his pocket one of the letters partly in cipher which Mr. Harper wrote to Miss Holmes in jail and intrusted to Charley Hopkins to deliver to her, but which that young man purloined.

Assistant District Attorney Bruce conducted the examination for the government. It was generally remarked that he rose to the dignity of the occasion and exhibited great spirit and snap.

Miss Josie grew warm under cross fire and shed her circular. Her manner was composed. Occasionally a hot flush tinged her cheeks.

A GIGANTIC SCHEME.

New Mexico is to Have an Irrigating Canal

142 Miles in Length. SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 18 .- The canal of the Albuquerque Lead and Water company, known throughout the country as the "Guy Robertson Mesa canal," will be commenced in ten days. Men, tools, provisions, etc., are now on the ground, and awaiting a change of weather to commence construction on the first section. The dimensions of the canal will be thirty feet wide at the top, eighteen at the bottom, and six feet deep; running a distance of 142 miles, through Rio Arrba, Santa Fe, Valencia, Bernalillo and Socorro counties, on the mesas and bottom lands of the Rio Grande

It will begin at a point about three and a half miles south of Espourela, and will stop near a point opposite Socorro. Over 1,500,-000 acres of now useless land will be reclaimed by the construction, which will subject it to copious irrigation. The supply of water will be practically inexhaustible, as the canal taps the Rio Grande at the starting point, and will have immense storage reservoirs, at intervals, along its line. Much enthusiasm is manifested throughout the territory at the commencement of operations.

AN EASTERN WAR CLOUD.

HOSTILE PREPARATIONS ON THE PART ON THE CZAR.

A Train Load of Explosives in Warsaw Ready to Be Sent to the German and Austrian Frontiers-The Pope Demands From England Home Rule for Ireland.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Anxiety of a very poignant nature continues to be felt with regards to the prospect of peace, and the latest items of news are not calculated to dispel the uneasiness. With the report of the czar's messages of peace to his congratulating subjects comes the announcement that a train load of explosives has arrived at Warsaw, and are ready to be sent to the German and Austrian frontiers, at a moment's notice.

War preparations on an immense scale are being carried on night and day. There are 450,000 troops in Russian Poland, and 350,000 are massed in the districts opposite to Roumania and the more easterly portions of the Austro-Hungary empire. These troops are held in readiness for anything; for quiet forage or sharp and active dashing banded about a year ago, and it is possible across the frontier lines to murder and plunthat a new organization is one of the pur-

The navy has not been forgotten. Two large new ironclads and six corvettes have been added to the Russian Black sea fleet. The ironclads are of the most modern type, and are superior to any possessed by Germany and Austria. Against those two countries they are not likely to be of much use in an offensive sense, but they are very likely indeed to decide the part which Turkey will play in case of a continental Turkey's naval power is rapidly decaying, while Russia, their ancient enemy, who was all but powerless in the black sea, is now very strong and growing stronger. These facts have not escaped the attention of the threatened powers, evidently. A conference was held very recently by Emperor Francis Joseph with the Arch Duke Albert, County Bylandt-Rheidt and Baron Beck. This conference of important statesmen is interimportance and that her military bearing needs discussion and possibly that counter preparations are required. As yet the Austrian government has not seen fit to demand an explanation from the ozar, and until it does, one need not despair of peace.

The Pope's Demands.

Paris, Jan. 1 .- A dispatch from Rome says: The English cabinet accepts in principle the pope's mediation between England and Ireland, based upon Mgr. Persico's report. The pope demands moderate Home Rule and advises the Conservatives to take the wind out of Gladstone's sails by adopting the leading points in his program, with the support of the Irish clergy.

Distrust of Bismarck.

LONDON, Jan. 18 .- Advices from Buda-Posth state that intense excitement is felt there in official circles over a mistrust of Bismarck, who is suspected of playing a double game by secretly working for the sole benefit of Germany while professing to be working for the common good of the Austro-German alliance.

DUBLIN, Jan. 18 .- Mr. Parnell predicts a government crisis in England, and advises the Parnellites and radicals to facilitate government business and thus avoid the charge of being obstructionists. This advice is not graciously received.

Bismarck to Address the Reichstag. BERLIN, Jan. 18.—Prince Bismarck will return here on Thursday and will address the Reichstag on military and Socialist projects.

Cable Notes.

Dissensions are reported among the Abysminian chiefs. King John wants to delay an attack on the Italians until next summer, but Rassalula's project for an immediate advance will probably prevail.

James G. Blaine has arrived in Venice. The pope advises the Irish bishops to use their influence to restore quiet and respect for law in Ireland. A new daily called the Star has been established in London.

No Yellow Fever in Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 18.—The mayors of Sanford and Tampa, the president of the Florida Health Protective association and hundreds of citizens from all parts of the state have telegraphed the News Herald, asking to deny the report sent out from this state that yellow fever existed in Tampa and Sanford. There has not been a case of yellow fever in this state for two months. All quarantine and restrictions have long since been abandoned as unnecessary and business has been resumed in all its details. The state is crowded with tourists who can testify to the facts here stated.

Threw the Mexicans Out to the Mob. GALVESTON, Jan. 18.—A special from Caldwell to the News, says: A mob gained entrance to the jail here Sunday night for the purpose of lynching the three Mexicans charged with the murder of a planter named Alford, several days ago. Pazo, one of the prisoners, confessed. The mob found the murderers in the cell with a megro, whom they commanded to throw the Mexicans out last summer have thrown upon the market of the cell one by one. After a terrible here 31,500,000 pounds of meat, which awaits struggle the negro ejected Pazo and another Mexican, both of whom were shot. The mob then retired.

FIVE IMPORTANT MEETINGS.

Cincinnati a Central Point for Men of Different Professions.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 18 .- The delegates to the fifth annual meeting of the Union Association of Lumber Dealers thronged the Grand hotel rotunda and corridors at an early hour this morning. The total attendance is expected to reach 500 members, most of whom arrived last night.

The active membership of the association is composed exclusively of retail lumber dealers, although wholesale dealers are freely admitted as honorary recuits. The membership is confined almost entirely to Ohio and western Pennsylvania, but there is a small representation of Kentucky and West Virginia. Similar associations of Michigan and Indiana are also represented at the gathering, Indiana's delegation numbering about fifty. Primarily the object of the union is protection in the way of preventing the selling directly to the consumer by the wholesale dealer.

Also at the Grand hotel to-day, the starch manufacturers of the west are in consultation. Representatives of some twenty leading establishments of that section of country are present. The starch men have no association at present, the last one having disthat a new organization is one of the pur-poses of the gathering, although those attending say that it is not very probable such will be the case.

At the same hotel there is a regular meeting in progress of the National Burial Case association, with about forty delegates present. Besides regular routine work, no business more important than the election of officers is expected to be transacted. The present officers, who will probably be reelected, are: William Hamilton, of Pittsburg, president; W. F. H. Hill, of Chicago, vicepresident; J. F. Richards, of Chicago. secretary, and James Smith, of Richmond, Ind., commissioner.

The second annual meeting of the National Iron Roofing association is being held at the Gibson house to-day. Besides business of a routine nature transacted there will be an election of officers. The following are the present officials, some, not all, of whom will be re-elected: W. A. Dietrick, of Cincinpreted to mean that the Austrian government nati, president; J. A. Miller, of Chicago, vice thinks that the movements of Russia are of president, and R. J. Hyndman, of Cincinnali, secretary. The manufacture of iron roofing, of comparatively recent origin, has developed enormous proportions, and Cincinnati is the recognised center of the industry in this country.

The American Base Ball association is also in session in this city, endeavoring to select the eighth club, with present prospects very much in favor of Kansas City.

Who the Tariff Favors.

There was imported last year a total of $44,200,000 worth of woolen goods and the duty paid on them amounted to $29,-700,000, equal to an average of over 67 per cent.

The total imports of silk in the same time were $31,200,000, which paid a duty of $15,500,000, equal to an average of 49 per cent.

This well illustrates the workings of the iniquitous tariff. The figures are official. A comparison will show that of diseases affecting that organ, although its woolen goods—the principal clothing of the poor-are taxed over 18 per cent. more than goods of silk, which is almost in the treatment of the internal organs of exclusively the wear of the rich. In digestion. The former is used in disturbances other words the present tariff taxes the poor over 18 per cent. more on their clothing than it does the rich.

CREATOR OF BOOTBLACKS' STANDS.

The Industry Pursued by an Italian-The Conveniences of Today. Few, probably, of the men who patronize the many shoe blacking establishments in the streets and sit in comfortable arm chairs on brass ornamented stands ever stop to think of the origin of these conveniences. They have increased in number so rapidly within the past few years that they are now as common a sight as a street lamp or a horse car. The majority of the stands are made in Worth street by an Italian, who proudly claims the honor of inventing them. His triangular shaped shop is over a blacksmith's and is reached by a short flight of rough wooden steps that might almost be called a ladder. In this small shop, with one window, boot blacking stands are piled from floor to ceiling. They are in various stages of completion and in different sizes, some being large enough for one, two or three chairs, so that a purchaser may buy according to his means. They range in price from $2 for a pine wood, painted, single chair stand, as high as $40. But, of course, no hightoned bootblack would buy a $2 affair. He would aspire to one made of mahogany and brass mounted, which would cost him $8 or $10.

Zine is going out of fashion as a covering for the top, and brass is taking its place. A stand large enough for three chairs was in process of construction, and when finished will be sold for $30. It contained three lock drawers for brushes and blacking, besides a money drawer, and will have a brass top and trimmings

The genial inventor is a good looking Italian about 50 years of age, who has been in this city six or seven years. He seemed pleased to talk of his work, but deplored the fact that four or five men who had worked under him had set up similar workshops, so that he has not so many orders as formerly. He unlocked the door of a small office and showed some designs for the foot rests. There were stately camels, flerce looking lions, ponies and soldiers, but the most original was a cavalier on a prancing charger framed in a horseshoe. These are the Italian's own designs. He buys a child's toy, twists it to satisfy himself and adds to it or takes away until he is suited, and carries it to the foundry, where it is cast in iron for him.-New York Evening World.

Schools for Pickpockets.

Notwithstanding the assurance of the police that there are no schools for pickpockets in the city, there are unquestionably several Fagins in town. A short time ago there was an Egyptian who kept a candy stand on Broadway, who had no fewer than thirteen boys under his direction engaged in pocket picking. He was finally captured by the police and in his stand was found fully $100 worth of silk pocket handkerchiefs which his pupils had stolen. There are now, according to the estimate of a well known police official not less than 1,500 pickpockets in this city in active practice .-

CHAT ABOUT DRUGS.

A FEW OF THE MEDICINES THAT PATIENTS HAVE TO SWALLOW.

What a Physician Has to Say-Applications of the Most Important Drugs. Watching for the Leading Symptoms. A Professional Secret.

"What are some of the most important drugs and their applications?" said a leading physician as he repeated the reporter's interrogatory. "Why, you will be surprised," he said, "when I make the statement that not over a dozen of the hundred and odd drugs upon the shelves of any city prescription store are in general use among the profession or considered important in combating disease. A MICHGAN man pays $13 dog tax and No need for astonishment, it is a fact; and my experience from day to day, based upon observations in an extended practice, leads me to the conclusion that there is only one drug-quinine-which can be relied on to produce uniform results. Quinine approaches a specific more closely than any other remedy known to medical practice. All other drugs vary, and at times to an alarming extent, in the results produced by their administration, sion and a bill for the relief of Franklin but quinine is very nearly infallible in the treatment of that class of disease popularly termed malarial, and about one-half the mor-THE Mt. In the valley of the Loire, in France; along certain por tions of the Thames river, in England; the It has the ring of true manhood, and until Roman Campagna and the Pontine marshes, where malaria is endemic, the continued use of quinine is an absolute necessity, and from these regions no dire results have ever been recorded against it. Is there a quinine habit? I have never met but one case. The effect of the drug is not speedy enough to have its use

"Next to quinine iodide and bromide of potassium lay tribute on the profession, although their action at times is sadly erratic. The former with iron constitutes the basis of blood purifiers, so called, although such a thing as a blood purifier, in the popular acceptation of the term, is unknown in medicine. It exists only on the cure all placards of the patent medicine compounder, and in the materia medica of the quack. Iodide of potassium acts as an absorbent in the blood, and its efficacy as a remover of impurities is brought about in that way.

"Bromide of potassium and with it chloral are used principally in the treatment of nervous diseases. They lessen the flow of blood to the brain, moderate nervous activity, and calm exciting emotions, producing a state of mental rest. Thus they are used largely in the treatment of the insane, and in cases of mental exhaustion. Digitalis is probably entitled to the next place from its importance as a heart tonic. We appeal to it in cases of weakness of the heart, and in most cases use does not cover every species of heart disease. Bismuth and pepsin are the remedies the profession considers the most efficacious of the stomach and bowels, while the latter is supposed to supply the lack of acid, which is one of the instruments by which food is digested in the stomach. In surgery carbolic acid and iodoform are the principal drugs used. The acid acts as a disinfectant, the other has important properties in heal-

"Drugs," the doctor continued, "and their administration is the least arduous part of a hysician's business; the great field that exereises skill and acknowledges ability in the profession and out of it lies in the determinng of disease or the study of its symptoms. Here is where the physician pauses. We only know disease by its symptoms, and when we are called to the bedside of the sick person our energies are bent to discover the most prominent existing symptoms, and, knowing hese, the great traditions of the science and our own experiences point out the remedies that are applicable. And here let me say that there is scarcely such a thing as wrong treatment, so often heard assailing members of the profession when they fail to effort a speedy cure. As I have said, we always treat the leading symptoms first. This is the invariable and only rule that can guide us, but frequently the drugs that have done most flicacious work before in combating exactly the same symptoms appear perfectly useless in the present case; this is owing, of course, to the existence of the latent symptoms which will determine the nature of the disease, and for which we are compelled to wait -unless dismissed in the meantime as incompetent in the opinion of the patient or his friends, and a new man called.

"Do many people consult you, doctor, whose ills are imaginary?" interrogated the scribe. The doctor smiled and relighted his

"In answering your inquiry," he said, "it will be necessary for me to unload a professional secret, but I guess it has leaked out before this. Many of our office consultations are with people who are laboring under the apprehension that they are about to become invalids. Why, a case of that character left any office not an hour ago. He is a railroad angineer, and thought his kidneys were affected, an idea produced, I suppose, by an occasional pain in the muscles of the back caused by the continued position which those men are compelled to assume. I gave him a prescription and told him he would be all right, although he didn't need it any more than you or I. I'll guarantee, though, that that prescription, which will fill a large bottle, will not hurt him, for it's nothing but a little syrup and water, with sufficient sarsa-parilla added to color it. Why did I give it to him? Because if I told him that he needed no medicine he would in all probability go to some other physician 'who knew his busines' and get the worth of his money, as he would term it. By giving him that prescription I have saved him another fee. I used to tell such people when I first began practice that they needed no medicine, but I found that my honest advice was attributed to ignorance on my part of their hypothetical disease. Strange, isn't it, but it is a fact, that the majority of persons who visit a physician want something for their money, and generally the more medicine they can get and, as a consequence, the larger their druggist's bill becomes the better you please them.

The King's Head.

The king's head was first used as one of the hall marks on English silver in 1784. The story is that George III, having attended a dinner at Goldsmith's hall, was greatly im-pressed with the rich display of plate used on that silver plate was a good article for taxation. Soon after the duty act was passed, which imposed a tax of sixpence per ounce on all silver made in England, and also enacted that the additional stamp of the king's head or duty mark should be placed on all articles as an evidence that the duty had been paid. The sovereign's head is the fifth mark, therefore any piece of English silver with only four marks is certainly over 100 years old. There are many fine specimens of the earlier period owned in Boston.—Boston Transcript.

The secretary of the American Society for Psychical Research says that it is impossible to tell by the looks of a person whether or not he is a good subject for the hypnotist. Be he light or dark, tall or short, stout or slender, sanguine or melancholy, it does not seem to make any difference. Those ordinary variathe peculiar quality necessary in a good subpersons contain a larger proportion of good number of experiments made by French physicians have been upon hysterical women. Among the insnne the proportion of good subjects is smaller than among the sane.

One interesting case is told of the effect of duction. being hypnotized upon a woman in an insane asylum. On the first occasion it took the hypnotizer four hours to put the woman to sleep. He kept his eyes within a short distance of hers, as she was fastened down, and moved them as she moved hers, until she operations required less time. The queer thing about the case was that her mind, Come early and secure a bargain. while in the hypnotic state, was sane. Gradually the sanity was transferred to her real waking moments, and she was finally com-pletely cured. She was of a low, criminal nature, but has been so changed that she is now a nurse in that same hospital. The secretary is on the lookout now for peculiarly susceptible persons on whom to perform experiments, and he hopes that much will be done in Boston this winter for this new field of science.-Chicago Times.

It is Transmitted to Congress by Mr. Cleveland, Accompanied by What He Has to Say on the Subject-Speaker Carlisle Ill.

Mr. S. S. Cox Elected Speaker Pro Tem. WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 .- The president today transmitted to congress the reports of the special Pacific railroad commission, accompanied by a message, in which he says: "These reports exhibit such transactions and schemes connected with the construction of the aided roads and their management, and suggest the invention of such devices on the part of those having them in charge, for the apparent purpose of defeating any chance for the government's embarrassment, that any adjustment or plan of settlement should be predicated upon the substantial interests of the government rather than any forbearance or generosity deserved by the com-

The condition of the present management of the Union Pacific company has an important bearing upon its ability to comply with the terms of any settlements of indel tedness which may be offered by the government."

After referring in detail to the various grants and benefits derived from the general government by the Union & Central Pacific company, the president continues: "The liberal donations, advances and privileges pro-vided for in this law, were granted by the general government for the purpose of securing the construction of these roads which would complete the connection between our eastern and western coasts, and they were based upon a consideration of the public benefits which would accrue to the entire country from such construction.

"But the protectors of these roads were not content and the sentiment which then seemed to pervade the congress had not reached the limit of its generosity. Two years after the passage of this law it was supplemented and amended in various important particulars in favor of these companies by an act, which provided among other things, that the bonds at the rate already specified should be delivered upon the completion of sections of twenty miles in length instead of forty, that the lands to be conveyed to said companies on the completion of each section of said roads should be ten sections per mile instead of five, that only half of the charges for transportation and service due from time to time from the United States should be retained and applied to the advances made to said companies by the government, thus obliging immediate payment to its debtor of the other half of said charges-and that the lien of the United States to secure the reimbursment of the amount advanced to said companies in bonds which lien declared by the law of 1862 to constitute a first mortgage upon all the property of said companies should become a junior lien and be subordinated to a mortgage which the companies were by the amendatory act authorized to execute to secure bonds which they might from time to time issue in sums not exceeding the amount of the United States bonds which should be advanced to them.

"The immense advantages to the com panies of this amendatory act are apparent, and in these days we may well wonder that even the anticipated public importance of the construction of these roads induced what must now appear to be a reckless and unguarded appropriation of the public funds and the public domain.

"It is almost needless to state that the companies have availed themselves to the utmost extent of the permission given them to issue their bonds and to mortgage their property to secure the payment of the same, by an incumbrance having preference of the government's lien and precisely equal to it in amount.

After some rather pointed comment on the manner in which the directors have bargained so as to convey to their pockets all the assets of the companies, the president commends the condition of affairs to the attention of congress, and concludes his mes sage as follows:

'It is quite time that the trouble complica tions surrounding this entire subject which has been transmitted to us as a legacy from former days, should be adjusted and settled. No one, I think, expects that these railroad companies will be able to pay their immense indebtedness to the government at its maturity. Any proceeding or arrangement that would result now or at any other time in putting these roads or any portion of them in the possession and control of the government is, in my opinion, to be rejected-certainly as long as there is the least chance for indemnification through any other means.

"While the plan presented by a majority of the commission appears to be well devised and gives at least partial promise of the results sought, the fact will not escape attention that its success depends upon its acceptance by the companies, and their ability to perform its conditions after acceptance. It is exceedingly important that any adjustment now made should be final and effective. These considerations suggest the possibility that the remedy proposed in the majority report might well be applied to a part only of these aided railroad companies.

"The settlement and determination of the questions involved are peculiarly within the province of the congress; the subject has been made quite a familiar one by congressional discussion. This is now supplemented in a valuable manner by the facts presented in the reports herewith submitted. The public interest urges prompt and efficient action. "GROVER CLEVELAND."

"EXECUTIVE MANSION, January 17, 1888." Speaker Carlisle Seriously III.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Speaker Carlisle was taken suddenly with a congestive chill yesterday while at dinner at the Riggs house. His physician orders rest for a few days, as the nervous system is greatly impaired. The illness of the speaker will doubtless prevent him from presiding over the house for several days, and may prevent him from delivering his revenue reform speech in Georgia next Saturday. At 4 o'clock this morning Mr. Carlisle was taken with another chill, which lasted several hours, but at 2 o'clock in the afternoon he had improved considerably, and his friends and physicians did not feel nearly so anxious and distressed about him as they did Electric Lights Froze up.

Madison, Ind., Jan. 18.-The blizzard of Saturday night and Sunday morning was the worst that has visited Madison for years. The fixtures for lowering the electric lights were frozen so solidly as to defy all attempts to lower them, and as a consequence the city was in total darkness for two nights. Several serious accidents have occurred from persons falling, among them Charles Sage, commercial traveler, severely injured about the back. Mrs. John Kelly and Mrs. William Brammel each suffered a broken limb.

No Trouble to the Burglars.

FLEMINGSBURG, Ky., Jan. 18.—The store of Adams & Cook, at Mount Carmel, this county, was entered by burglars at an early hour Saturday morning, the safe and cash drawer opened and $350 in currency taken. No clew, The proprietors thought to keep the matter quiet, but were forced to come here for assistance to-day. The thieves, through the owners' reticence, have a good start. The safe was an old one, opening with a key, which the robbers found in the cash drawer.

Found Dead on the Street.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 18 .- C. B. Hoffman, twenty-five years old, residing at 1447 North street, was found dead at Fifth and Jefferson streets at half past 12 o'clock this morning. He came to this death from a pistol shot supposed to have been discharged by George Geiger, of 866 North Fourth street. Geiger was arrested and locked up in the Tenth district station house.
